The Charter of this Company offers more favorable advantages to the farmer and others, than any Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant can pay the full amount of the premium in each, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one-eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves nearly one-half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of the

MISCELLANEOUS READING. CLOSING SCENES .- The New York correspondent of the Dispatch gives an affecting account of of the "closing scenes" in the lives of two characters who have been at one time, eminent in their way. Of the recent death of Mr. Barrett, distinguished as

"Gentleman George," he writes. "That the word 'poverty' reminds me that poor 'Gentleman George' of the drama is no more. Geo. H. Barrett was a glorious fellow in his time, and many thousand dollars has he received during his professional life, (for he played, as a child, Cora's infant in 'Pizarro'at the Federal street theatre, in Boston, and came out, at twelve, as Young Norval, here, at the Park); but who shall tell the privations he silently endured? who picture the anguish of his sensitive feeling, as he gusped away his life sometimes in actual want and rarely in the possession of the commonest domestic comforts? When the Dramatic Fund was compelled by its bad management to curtail its annuities, Barrett was thrown, with his interesting family, almost entirely upon the kindness of his friends. They were not forgetful; but even the best of friends must fail to realize the manifold needs of the sick, the aged, the disheartened; the peculiar sufferings which none can feel except those who, accustomed to a florid existence, are tied down in the frost-time of life to food both coarse and scant, while the demon of dispair is tugging at their hearts and sickness s racking with pain every bone and sinew."

Of poor Lola Montez we have this sad pic-

"Lola Montez is stopping at Astoria with kind friend, but, alas in what condition of body and mind! She is not exactly an imbecile, and yet what term will more clearly express her mental helplessness? Physically she is an invalid of a melancholy description. A female friend of mine saw her a day or two ago, and it was enough to make one's heart bleed to note the picturesque imnings of the wonderfully changed woman. Lola was costumed in a half night and half morning robe, and she sat in a pretty garden, her hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and cadaverous complexion forming a remarkable contrast to the gay flowers. She was unable to utter an intelligible word, except spasmodically, and after repeated efforts. Her mouth was frothing, like that of one in partial convulsions, and she was unconsciously wiping it, as little boys do by drawing it across the sleeve of her dress. In fact, she had the strange wild appearance and behaviour of a quiet idiot, and is evidently lost to all further interest in the world around her, and its affairs. And so ends her eventful history. What a study for the brilliant and thoughtless! What a sermon on human vanity !"

At Road, in England, recently, a child named Francis Saville Kent, was murdered, and one Edmund John Gegg gave himself up to the Magistrates as the murderer. Before his trial, however, it was discovered that he had not been near the place where the murder was committed that he did not know the child murdered, and, in short, that he was in a distant part of the country. At last he confessed that his previous confession was untrue, and that he had been led to it because his "life was a burden to him." He was, of course discharged.
